COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

Last Tuesday night the Budget Committee approved a budget allowing $154,348 for local expenditures. This with an expected county tax at $10,000 and anticipated school cost of $316,700 will make the tax rate $49.00 per thousand unless we have a sizable increase in valuation.

In 1969 we had a total appropriation of $415,032 compared to an expected $461,048 this year. There is every indication we can reduce this year's figure at the next meeting as we are told there are drastic cuts being made in the school budget.

Our local requests were reduced this year by $7,630 mainly because of the large appropriation last year for snow removal.

There will be another budget committee meeting next Tuesday night when it is hoped we will have more favorable figures from the school and can finalize our requests.

This year requests are being made to improve the drainage of Sanding Brook and for White Pine Blister Control.

CORRIN APPOINTED DIRECTOR OF OXFORD COUNTY MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES

Oxford County Mental Health Services, with clinics in both Rumford and Norway, announce the appointment of Denis Corrin to their staff as Executive Director. Corrin, a native of South Dakota, earned his B. A. at Dakota Wesleyan University and received his M. S. at North Texas State University.

He has worked at both Augusta State Hospital and Pineland Hospital and Training Center. For the last three years he has been employed by the State of Illinois, and part-time with the Comprehensive Community Mental Health Center of Rock Island and Mercer Counties. The Corrins are presently residing in Bryant Pond.

Denis Corrin

During the brief period that Oxford County Mental Health Services has been providing treatment in the area, over 400 individuals and families have sought help from the two clinics. Many more persons either unaware of the services provided or turned away by the stigma of being "insane" or "crazy" were unable to avail themselves to their Mental Health Clinics.

Many people are not aware that mental illness is this nation's number one health problem and that over half of the persons who are in hospitals today are suffering from different forms of mental illness. During the course of life, most individuals are faced with fears, depressions, frustrations and overwhelming problems that require outside help.

Fees are charged for the services provided by the Mental Health Centers and are always reasonable and within the clients ability to pay. There is equal concern for all persons seeking help regardless of race, creed, national origin and economic level. Fees from clients cover less than 15% of the operating costs so it is necessary that the clinics depend on each town in Oxford County to appropriate a given amount in to their town budget to support mental health services.

For the most part, the towns in the county have responded quite favorably to the yearly requests for financial support. Without such support, local mental health services could not continue. The Oxford County Mental Health Association expresses its sincere appreciation to each town supporting the cause of mental health in the county at a cost of about 34 cents per capita.

Clay Colin Andrews son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Newton and Peter Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blake Jr., have been accepted for enrollment at The Ted Williams Baseball Camp, Lakeville, Mass. for the session June 7 to 27. Remember the clinic takes place again this Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the Telstar gym. All boys in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades are welcome to attend—just bring your own sneakers, athletic socks, shorts, and T-shirt.

The Bethel budget committee will finalize their recommendations after the S.A.D. 44 board approves a 1970 budget.

REVISED S.A.D. 44 BUDGET SHOWS 42% INCREASE

—ADDED PRUNING INDICATED

At a special meeting held in the library at Telstar Regional High School Monday evening of this week, District 44 directors heard a presentation of the 1970 district budget by Supt. Ralph Ryder and Roger Spugnardi, administrative assistant. The budget offered reflected cuts totaling $90,000 from original requests by department heads and supervisors in the District.

Even with the $90,000 reduction the gross budget still totaled $1,691,354. Less $741,628 of estimated receipts, $949,726 would remain to be raised by member towns of the District. The District's share of the 1969 budget was $665,677, of a gross budget of $1,329,237.

Preliminary 1970 figures of $949,760 would represent a 42.67% increase in the taxpayers cost. If this budget were adopted it would incur to the District towns the following assessments, with increases over last year indicated: Andover, $307,426.31, up $91,946.31 over 1969; Bethel, $347,219.83, up $103,847.83; Greenwood, $130,207.43, up $38,943.43; Newry, $41,218.11, up $12,328.11; Woodstock, $123,654.32, up $36,033.32.

Polled informally it was evident that the majority of the directors present thought the budget was still too high. A minority were of the opinion that the budget should be presented to the voters as is, with the citizens making any reductions. Others indicated that they felt the directors would be derelict in their duty if they did not make further attempts to reduce the total.

Mr. Ryder, when asked by a board member if he could support the 42+-% increase, said he could not.

SAD 44 teachers and others who attended the meeting expressed a basic concern for the maintenance of a quality educational program.

Members of the board of directors who were not present at the Monday meeting were: Eddie Snyder, Frederick Sidelinger, Andover; Mrs. Joan Wiese, Don Stecher, Bethel; Milton Mills, Woodstock.

It is expected that a further revised budget will be presented to the directors at their regular meeting to be held next Monday evening at 7:30, at Telstar Regional High School.

COMMENT DOWN FROM IVORY TOWERS

Rationalization that the money is needed for quality education won't ease the pinch in the taxpayers' pocketbooks that a predicted S.A.D. 44 budget increase of 30% would cause. An increase of this magnitude would result in at least a 14.5% increase in Bethel's tax rate, and we are sure comparable increases in other district towns.

Other than justified increases to keep facilities from falling apart, we believe that those responsible for larger departmental requests should come down from their Ivory towers and at least in part recognize the fiscal facts of the area's ability to pay.

As some one once said, "If fate hands you a lemon, make lemonade." To make lemonade you have to do some squeezing, and if some one does not do some squeezing before the school budget gets to the annual District meeting, the voters are quite apt to.

Education can price itself right out of the marketplace the same as anything else.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Buck and family were in Buckfield visiting relatives Sunday.

Howard Douglass has been discharged from the Portland hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Abbott, Faith, Stuart, and a friend, Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Abbott and Sonya of East Sumner, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Judkins of Rumford Point, and Rev. and Mrs. Edgar Bailey of Rangeley spent Sunday afternoon with relatives in town.

Several people were in town Sunday with snow machines. They tried to go to Mollodgewalk Pond from the top of Dweller Hill. Perhaps they found the going rough from this route as later they were seen going up Lane Hill.

We watched a moose tramping around in the alders Saturday afternoon. This is the first time we have seen one near the house during the winter.

The frost heaves added to the debris left over from the last December storm, make the travelling rough from here to Errol. But on these clear, cold mornings the view is lovely. From near the top of Errol Hill, we can see the fog rising from the river and as we approach the bridge, we see the bushes and hardwoods on the banks. These are all covered by frozen mist and look like silver artificial Christmas trees en masse.

Fred Judkins has a new Dodge pick-up truck.

Kathy Bernier celebrated her 10th birthday with a party Monday evening. Guests were Diane, Holly, Marjorie and Tammy Abbott, Janice and Pamela Buck.

Melanie Stosser was in town Monday evening. She has been accepted at Farmington State College and begins her studies Feb. 2.

Laurie Bernier has returned to school in Phillips from Waterville where she underwent minor surgery at Thayer Hospital.

Telstar is scheduled to journey to Lisbon on Friday evening, and will entertain Jay in the local gym next Tuesday evening, Jan. 20.

GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Collette Morgan, Corres. —

Winter's fangs sank deeper this week for the thermometer edged below the zero mark several times.
The whine of the snow could be heard against the echoes of the expansion cracks on the pond.

Over night the frost flowers bloomed on all the windows, some resembling tiny ferns of the rarest perfection.

The sunrise is still slow but the sunset is later. This change isn't much but we know it's there.

Leaving my snug security of warmth I walked into some of winter down my valley.

The giant icicles hanging from the rocks, though beautiful as they glinted in the sun were gnawing away at the edges trying to crumble them.

Just beyond and nearer to the road, the water trickled piling up in terraces as it was hit by the frost giants. By its side were masses of delicate crystals, frost flowers again, resembling feathers. Had some winter bird shed them there?

At the edge of the pond, still tall and stout but no longer dressed in its "woolies" and yellow flowers, stood the common mudflat plant.

This came a long way from the low peninsula of Thapsus and became the "American Velvet Plant."

Although now no longer beautiful it stood tall, a reminder of what will come again.

It's a hushed time of year when woods are still except for the rustle of the oak and beech. Upon the hills now a tired worker, Mother Earth, takes her ease protected by her quilt of white.

I walked to, then on ice-crusted
Mud Pond, so recently renamed, Twilight Pond.

Sunshine lighted the snow flecked boughs along the shore. I stopped to take some pictures and look up, for my first time view from here, at the ledges on Noyes so invisible at road-view or when the trees are dressed in summer and fall.

Now against the keen wind facing

Both are expected guests at the Oxford Council Auxiliary at Norway on Jan. 20. Also a gift to a hospitalized ex-serviceman at the Rumford hospital. Josephine Tripp is to purchase the flag for the Auxiliary's use, during our meetings.

Voted to contact our Senators and Representatives in Congress on obscene literature and junk mail being placed in post office mail boxes. Several thank you notes were read for Christmas gifts to older members. The membership stands at 50%.

The Second District meeting will be held at Farmington, Jan. 24.

Non active members are urged to send their dues for 1970 before Feb. 24. That will be the date of the next meeting.

Gail Dickey suffered a broken leg while skiing at Rumford Wednesday with the Telstar girls' ski team. Raymond Harrington remains a patient at the Rumford Community Hospital.

CUB SCOUTS

The birds are having more than weather bothering them for one of the largest hawks that I have ever seen came right to the feeder where the blue jays and woodpeckers were eating their food. Well, for some good reason it did not get anything. It stayed around about ten minutes. There were some scared screams and quick disappearing done. The partridge came right in between the storm window and the inside window.

When all was clear they went back to eating I like to feed all but I do not like the habits of the hawk and wish he would move away and fast.

The Letters of Science at Telstar

The technology of our age, and the necessity for man to identify the realities of the universe for himself and succeeding generations, dictates an obligation to society to insure that all schools provide an effective program in the sciences.

In this issue and in the upcoming issue of the Oxford Citizen, we are seeking to communicate to the M. S. A. D. 44 citizens the nature of our Telstar science program.

I P S — INTRODUCTORY PHYSICAL SCIENCE

The I P S program is the result of the efforts of a special science study committee to bring to the student true laboratory experience and insight into methods of gaining scientific knowledge. It does, at the same time, provide a basic knowledge and develop skills useful in the modern high school sciences.

Since the level for which the program is intended includes the junior high school, equipment and experiments had to be designed for use in buildings without laboratory facilities and with limited budgets and space. As a result our equipment is simple, sturdy and uniquely adaptable for use in an ordinary classroom. At Telstar we find sinks, shelves, running water and laboratory benches a big help with several classes using the same equipment every day.

The student learns the concept of mass and volume as ways of measuring matter. He develops a working knowledge of the characteristic properties of matter such as density, elasticity, thermal expansion, melting point, etc. He uses these properties not only to distinguish between substances but also to separate one substance from another.

The direction of the program is such that the student has a first hand opportunity to gather and tie together the information necessary to form or confirm the atomic theory of matter. To recognize and use the tools of science to record and arrange data intelligently to measure area, volume and estimate error, to look for relationships and devise ways of changing them to understand and to solve problems are some of the skills developed during the course of the program.

Some randomly selected I P S student responses follow: 1. The experiments are fun, but we have to sit and concentrate and talk so long, and we have to figure out hard math problems and home desk and lab problems. 2. I hate I P S because it is too closely related to math, and I don't like science anyway. H.D.L. isn't so very good anyway. 3. I do not like I P S because I don't like to do experiments because I always do them wrong. One other reason I don't like I P S is because I don't like to do H.D.L. 4. I P S is useful because, I enjoy it. It will be very useful to me in the years to come. It satisfies my urge to scientific endeavors and it widens my scientific knowledge and vocabulary. 5. I P S is a good subject if you care for it. It shows you something you've got to know about science. 6. I like doing experiments better than talking about what we have learned. I like doing class experiments and recording the data. I don't like to write the conclusion for our science reports. I like doing balance work, finding volume, and finding mathematical problems, but I don't like doing experiments involving poisonous acids and liquids.

The camera's eye presents some views of the I P S program in action in the following photographs:

GENERAL SCIENCE

The majority of Junior High science students participate in a "general science" type of program. This program provides the students with a variety of basic experiences in the different fields of science. A good student is built for future years when they may attempt a more in depth study of fields such as Biology, Physics, Chemistry, and Earth Science.

So far this year we have undertaken a unit on weather in which the different weather instruments and their uses were studied, a unit on density which dealt with the transmuting of characteristics from one generation to another, a unit on sound, light and electrical energy which dealt with these different forms of energy, how they are produced and used in subsequent ways, students will be studying the cell, the plant life, how to maintain a healthy human body, and how to combat disease.

At the high school level a general science has been designed for those who wish an overview of science. General Science Problems: the program consists of rather broad and general experiences regarding problems in everyday science. At present students are involved in making "Viable V" engines and some students are busy constructing models.

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES CURRICULUM STUDIES

BIOLOGY is the student's first

ESCP
Eager Students Can't Pass? Early Squash Cans Poorly? Earth Shakes Cows Past? Eye Sight C Pirates? Every Star Contains Potassium?

No, none of the above. ESCP stands for Earth Science Curriculum Project. The curriculum project committee, funded primarily by the National Science Foundation, developed this program over a period of years. It is designed to permit pupils to become personally involved in a variety of experiences relating to the earth upon which they live. Most investigations permit students to gather their own data which they correlate and from which they may draw meaningful conclusions. Typical examples of investigations which ESCP pupils engage in are as follows:

1. Identification of weather patterns in Oxford County. 2. Determining the circumference of the earth. 3. Determination of the density of some Oxford County minerals. 4. Composition of Oxford County granite. 5. Acceleration due to gravity at latitude 45° N. 6. Sunwatch—Variation in numbers of sunspots during 1969-70 school year. 7. Earthquake watch—Where do most earthquakes occur and what is the magnitude of the quake? 8. Effects of Solar Radiation on planet Earth.

The accompanying photographs and sampling of student papers represent an attempt to present to the reader a limited but sincere view of student involvement in this ESCP program which is offered primarily to 9th and 10th grade pupils. A small number of 8th grade pupils are enrolled. Juniors and seniors are permitted to elect this course in limited numbers, however.

Four selected student responses to this program are listed below.

Belinda Briggs: "I feel this course is important for people going into the field of chemistry or something similar. It's also a good background for astronomy."

"I think some of the experiments really make you think. To me this is important. Some of them are simple and to me these are useless. The one about the earth and finding its perimeter made you think, but really it wasn't useful in everyday life unless you are going to need it in the work you're planning to do."

"So far I have learned some facts pertaining to the earth that I didn't know and ways to find certain things."

Christine Grover: "I feel that this course is valid in a well round education. It covers a wide variety of subjects concerning our home, the planet Earth. It presents facts in an interesting way, through experimental processes. Unlike history, English, or social science it is not mere memorization of facts. It is a real LEARNING and understanding through experience course."

Randy Littlefield: "I think the course itself is pretty good, myself. It does tend to get dull at times, but on the other hand it usually holds my interest. We discuss what we have read so as to better understand the material, which is good. But, we aren't able to work much in the lab, but just the same, the course is okay."

"Now, some of the kids say the course is boring and dull, I don't think so. The course is good, it is the teacher that gets boring and repetitious in class. But it is not entirely your fault. It is us, too! We tend to make dull and boring what actually isn't. So, it is part of you, the you in class, and the kids (especially those who don't want to learn) which make this class seem dull. Don't get me wrong, I like you and your method of teaching, but you tend to sound disinterested and boring at times while speaking to the class. Other than that, I pretty well like your class."

Elton Cole: "To me Earth Science is a good class. Even though I do not pass in and do all of my homework I get something out of the class almost everyday. The homework is light and easy to do most of the time. You're not as hard on us as most of the teachers. That makes it a lot easier for me to learn because I don't worry about you rushing me and becoming angry."

"Most of the things that we study aren't interesting to me. I would rather work more often in groups and compete with the other groups. The thing that I dislike most is spending a whole class period talking about the same thing."

"I do learn from the class though."

Perry Ryerson: "It was great the first men on the moon! It was and probably will be the greatest moment in my life. The picture of the flag on the moon made me feel mighty proud of the people who made the flight a success."

Dana Morgan: "I was very proud of what the U. S. had accomplished. I hope that the moon landing would help to bring peace to the world. At the same time I wondered why they didn't use the millions of dollars to clean up this world. They say a hundred years ago people would laugh at men on the moon, but I wonder if they would laugh if they were told what the world is like today."

"As they stepped onto the moon I felt sorry and happy for the wives. At the moment they must have been very proud but even so very much worried. The landing so far has not changed the war. If we really want the world changed we will have to clean up our atoms and cities first."

Ellen Clark: "I was very happy and proud that our country should be the first to put man on the moon."

Steve Farnum is observing an ex-bon dioxide during the food making ferment dealing with the use of car-process of plants.

"Hey Randy, how's Ronnie's voice being put on that tape?"

7th graders working with lenses in General Science.

It was also very exciting to think that we could be seeing, at almost the same time it was happening, men on another planet. I also thought how horrible it would be if something went wrong and the astronauts got hurt or killed after they had done such a fabulous thing. I was thinking, also that something as important as the moon landing could bring all the people on the earth together, that all of them were proud of the same thing and that maybe with these things in common, we could have peace."

NEWRY

Miss Amy E. Hanscom, Cor.
The Municipal officers have completed work on the Annual Town Report and it is in the hands of the printers. The year ended with all accounts either balancing off or showing an unexpended balance. Total unexpended balances in all accounts at the end of the fiscal year were $12,851.09. Total expenditures for the year were $44,026.42, with receipts, including the Dec. 31, 1968 cash balance of $62,241.33, leaving a year end cash balance of $18,214.91.

Because of a law passed by the 104th Legislature which requires every Municipality to adopt a July 1-June 30, Fiscal Year not later than July 1, 1972 two budgets have been prepared this year. One for 12 months and another for 15 months. An attempt is being made to have the law repealed, in which event the 12 month budget could be used. If this attempt fails, however, the 15 month budget should be used. Otherwise it would be necessary to have an 18 month budget in 1971. To the proposed 12 month budget, for all accounts other than schools, is $9,940.44, compared to $9,718.56. A substantial increase is anticipated in the school budget. The 15 month budget for accounts other than schools totals $12,883.05. Snow Removal and Town Officer's Salaries accounts are considerably higher in the 15 months budget. The reason for this, of course, is that the period would cover two Winters and the Town Officers are paid twice during the period covered by this budget. Summer accounts would be the same for each budget.

From a total 1969 commitment of $35,022.58, $14,489.66 was collected, plus discounts allowed of $327.57 and abatements of $28.71. Excise taxes collected during the year totaled $3,901.10. $2,431.78 in back taxes plus interest were collected, $69.98 in tax liens plus cost and interest and $141. in rental of tax acquired property, were also collected.

At the end of the year $214.94 was due on prior years taxes, $115.50 of Capt. Romeo A. Baker, a former Bethel boy, now returned to Maine after years of business and residence in Plainfield, N. J., gave an excellent talk, illustrated by colored slides.

Aided by maps and pictures he delineated some of his experiences as an Air Force pilot in World War II and of a later trip in 1966 as a member of a selected group of Reserve Officers to NATO countries.

The purpose of these yearly visits is for representative groups to inspect first hand and report to the American public by means of speeches, the press, radio and TV on military installations, air bases, headquarters, etc., located in five of the NATO nations.

His explanations of the need importance and effectiveness of NATO were comforting. His descriptions of incidents and tragedies and pictures of The Wall were grim. The program hour passed quickly. We hope to hear Capt. Baker again.

WOODSTOCK

Promotions in the Junior-Primary Room of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in South Woodstock, were made the first of the year as follows: Beverly Verrill, Lonnie Hadley and Kevin Roberts, from the Junior to the Youth Division; Bobby Taylor, Clayton Wilson, Peter Hurd, and Barry Hadley, from the Primary to the Junior Division.

A report just released from the Welfare Dept., Washington, D. C., listed 499 tons of clothing and 38 tons of medicine and equipment shipped for overseas relief. This is besides the many tons distributed through Adventist Welfare Centers in the United States.

During the disaster wrought by hurricane Camille the Church's Services aided 30,000 victims with $1,500 including cash expended, food, clothing, bedding and medicine. 659 emergency relief centers around the world, besides a warehouse on the east and west coasts of the U. S., maintain a stock of relief supplies at all times.

In many Centers clothing is stored in plastic packages ready for immediate distribution. Each package contains a complete outfit for one person, including toothbrush, toothpaste, comb, and personal articles.

Those who contributed to the recent "Uplift" program promoted by Adventist have a part in providing such necessary articles to those in need following major disasters, as well as ministering to those in need at all times.
